

Players' Finale Now On Stage

Sentinel Receives "Excellent" Rating

Panther Sentinel has received its third consecutive rating of "excellent" from the Associated Collegiate Press, according to word received this week from the University of Minnesota rating service.

The Sentinel was evaluated for the fall semester by Duane Andrews, former staffer on the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Editor of Panther Sentinel last fall was Santiago Flores of the Philippines. Jim Gregory was sports editor, while Dave Wynne, John Fitzpatrick, current editor, and Mrs. Judge Barrow, all Salinas, were other full-time staff members. Bob Alread of Watsonville and Dave Gates of Salinas were the photographers, and Mr. George Abbott was advisor.

Five Rated Higher

The newspaper was entered in the biweekly class with 28 other newspapers. Five were rated "superior," 11 were listed as "excellent," 10 were evaluated as "good" to "very good" and three were "fair" to "good." Ratings of "excellent" were given for balance of news coverage, news writing, editorials, copyreading, style, leads, sports writing, nameplate, editorial page layout, inside news page makeup, headlines and printing.

It was suggested that the paper strive for more feature articles and action pictures and attempt to keep news material and advertising off the editorial page.

"You do a fine job of covering the news—particularly sports—but need more features. You do a fine writing job," Andrews wrote.

Abbott said the faults are well known to the staff. "Our problems could be solved easily by a larger staff and additional pages," he concluded.

Literary Work Needs Writers

A literary magazine is in the process of being compiled by Jim Maloney, Frank "Casey" Buchter, Tom Aldersen and Dr. W. Donald Head.

New writers are being solicited and anyone who has any type of literary material should submit his work to Buchter for consideration.

The pamphlet style magazine will contain poetry, short stories and some artwork. Short stories should not exceed 6,000 words.

A club is being sought to publish the magazine and to take all the profits, if any are derived from the project.

40 Bids Are Sold To Spring Prom

Decorations for the spring prom in the Pacific room of the Hotel San Carlos in Monterey are being formulated.

Background and color will be patterned after French landscapes and sidewalk cafe scenes typical of the fashionable "Champs Elysses."

According to Darnell Herschbach, bids chairman, 40 bids had been sold and reserved as of Monday.

Bids are being sold at the student finance office in the student union.

Players Ready for Finale

■ Jean Marquess and Mrs. Carol Lubin, leading characters in tonight's Hartnell college-community playhouse production of "Lo and Behold," mix a mutual interest in literature with a bit of romance. The show opened last night and performances continue at 8:30 tonight and Saturday night.

"Lo and Behold," written by John Patrick, is the final 1958-59 production of the Hartnell college-community playhouse. The play opened last night in the Little theater and performances will continue tonight and Saturday at 8:30.

This particular play was selected for its unusual and sharp quality of humor; however, according to Mr. Hal Ulrici, "The Diary of Anne Frank" was considered first but difficulties concerning production rights prevented the group from presenting it.

Among the stage props are a provincial desk and chair that belonged to Mr. Ulrici's grandfather, Thomas Chappell, who purchased them in the 1870's. The furniture, although aged antiques, still possess an historical and sentimental appearance.

Early Pioneer Feature

Hanging directly above the desk on the stage is a framed portrait of Chappell, who was one of the first early pioneers who settled in the Salinas valley.

In this production, each of

Science Groups See Bear Trio, Eat Fish Food

Three koala bears, recently brought over from Australia, were viewed by members of Dr. Howard Feder's Zoology 1B and marine biology classes during a field trip to San Francisco April 30.

According to Dr. Feder, the koala bears at the Fleishacker zoo are not true bears but actually are marsupials or pouched mammals, like the kangaroos.

At the Steinhart aquarium the students observed some small fish that walked by means of pectoral fins. Ferocious South American piranhas were also examined.

Grunts Heard

"Croakers" which make noise enough to interfere with submarine sound detectors were also viewed. The students were

An exhibit of about 10 watercolors, oils and other techniques is on display in the science wing of the main building through May 22. The paintings are the work of Chester Amyx, son of Hartnell art instructor Mr. Leon K. Amyx.

The young artist specializes in oil paintings and watercolor with emphasis on portrait paintings.

Chester Amyx was graduated from Hartnell in 1957 and from San Jose State college in 1958, where he received great distinction and departmental honors. He is now a graduate student and departmental assistant at San Jose State. Next year he will teach art at Bakersfield high school.

Field Day Held At East Campus

San Luis Obispo won the sweepstakes award at the high school field day Saturday on the east campus, according to Mr. Lyman Fowler, east campus director.

San Luis was first in land judging, with Salinas in second place. Salinas was first in the judging of truck crops, with King City in second position. San Luis won the parliamentary procedure contest and Gonzales was second.

In the farm mechanics contest, students identified tools and hardware and participated in welding and carpentry projects. Gonzales was first, and King City finished second.

Salinas won the dairy cattle herd judging contest in which San Luis was second. Morgan Hill was first in both hog and beef cattle judging, while San Luis was first in the judging of sheep.

The total livestock judging was won by Morgan Hill and San Luis was second. The dairy judging was at Luis Calcagno ranch, Moss Landing, and the beef judging was at Merrill's hereford ranch.

The winners were announced by Mr. Fowler at 3 p.m. in the Little theater and ribbons were presented by Dr. J. F. Ching, president of Hartnell.

Employers Seek Specialists

Are you having trouble finding work? With the end of the college year, the rush is on by those seeking work. Some will be graduating from junior colleges or four-year colleges and universities, and will be looking for full-time work. Other college students will be seeking summertime employment only.

The recession of last year, which often plagued a student's attempt to obtain work of his choice, has given way to a general upswing in the economy. Thus, this year the job opportunities are supposedly better, yet many students still have a difficult time locating work.

The experts attribute this scarcity of jobs for some students to the fact that the outlook for college students in the field of liberal arts is good, but not as good as the opportunities for those who specialized.

Specialists Have Advantage

This has always been the problem of the liberal arts major, and many times the employer is at fault, as he will bypass the liberal arts graduate for one who has specialized. Yet each time the educators and business men confer, the educators are told that students should have more liberal arts courses in order to get a broader background. Then the employers shun the liberal arts major in favor of a student who has specialized.

In this age of "sputniks" the literature or philosophy major often has to sit back and watch the science-minded graduate get ahead. Meanwhile, the boom in missiles and space research grows, and the competition gets keener and the salaries lower for the liberal arts major.

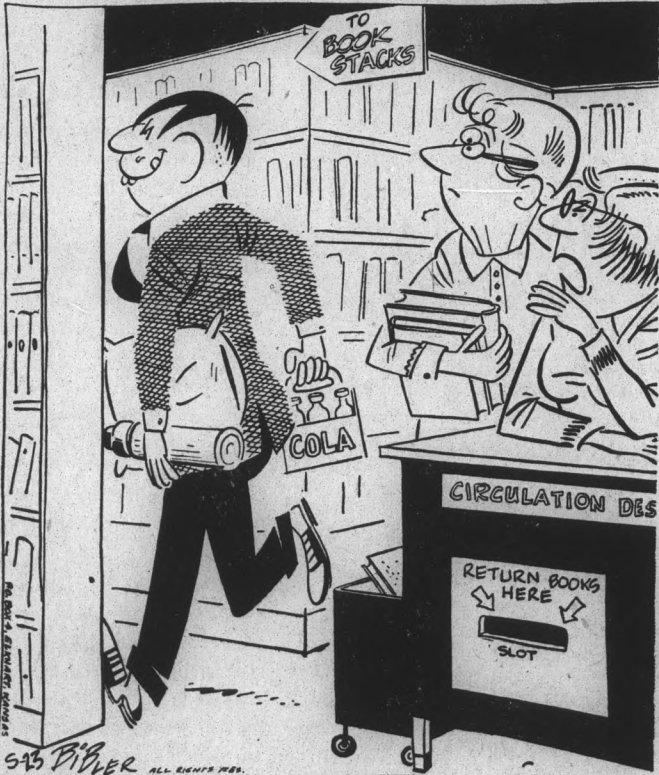

In spite of it all, the outlook for employment for this year's June college graduate in liberal arts is good. Because of the upswing of economy, industry is keeping its trainee programs. Thus the liberal arts major can enter a training program although he hasn't specialized. Also, for arts majors, amazing job potentials have been discovered by the federal government, according to latest statistics.

The most important thing, according to the experts, is to decide on the specific type of job a student wants. Then the prospect should seek plenty of advice about the opportunities in the proposed field and determine where the best opportunities exist.

JC Graduates Highly Rated

One thing in which junior college graduates can take pride is their standings in comparison with students of four-year colleges. A recent study made by Professors W. A. Hall and Bohnam Campbell, both of the University of California at Los Angeles, shows junior college graduates appear to be on an educational par with students who have finished their first two years of study at four-year colleges and universities.

Regarding the production, Director Ulrici stated, "I feel this play is one that thoroughly entertains the audiences as Patrick is such an outstanding writer and creator of unique comedy lines."

Prom Posters Look Good

By Bob Thompson

Do you do it? The lions do it. The Greeks in old Athens do it. Prominent playboys do it. Even mom and dad do it. Do what? Go to the prom, of course!

Our congratulations go to the artist who made the posters now displayed in the main hallway. They are, no doubt, the most unique we have seen this year. Sharp posters go with the sharpest event of the year, the prom—don't miss it!

How would you like to attend school in Russia? We are sure you would find it quite different from here at Hartnell.

Russians Are Strict

According to Dr. Glen T. Goodwill, superintendent of Santa Monica schools, who recently toured Soviet Russia, the Russian student must follow exact rules of behavior; greet all instructors with a polite bow, obey all commands of teachers without question, and avoid coarse expressions, smoking and gambling.

There are also additional little musts for a Russian student, such as rising when an instructor enters the room and the keeping of accurate notes in every class. The notes are subject to review at any time. Dr. Goodwill also stated that he noticed a prevailing silence in the classrooms of the unsmiling Russian students.

We all no doubt agree that this type of system does not present a very good atmosphere for learning. We must admit some of the standards demanded of the Russian students are good ones, but we also believe many of these courtesies are practiced by the American student without any thought of their being imposed rules of conduct.

Buckle Down, Comrades!

The Russian school system is a challenge to every American student. We must meet this challenge by disciplining ourselves to work harder and by utilizing all the advantages our educational programs offer us. We must remain the best educated people in the world.

Our thanks to the San Francisco City College Guardsman and Dr. Glen T. Goodwill for the information on the Russian school system.

Diaper Changers Sparkle; Anyone for Handball?

By Raymondo

Hartnell has already missed out on any chance for national recognition in telephone booth cramming. Let all true Panthers come to the front to bring new glory to Hartnell in the latest sport, competitive diaper changing.

Why cannot Hartnell field a superb team of pinup boys? Bill Throgmorton has long been known as a sensational standout in the three-cornered league. Part of his proficiency has been attributed to a relentless supply of new material which enables him to keep in the pink at all times.

Bob Janke would also be a candidate for a spot on the squad. Experts have marveled at his smooth, deliberate motion with the safety pin.

Rookie Phenom Uncovered

Also a sensational rookie has recently appeared on the horizon. Although he favors the unorthodox rectangular shaped style it is reported that with more experience Ruben Rueda may become the standout of the Diaper Derby.

Coaching would be no problem. Bare facts show that Mr. John Schaub and Mr. John Schwellenbach are well fundamentaled in the indoor sport. (Each has three children.) Of course, with the incomparable old "pro," Dr. Jerome Holmes, serving as the head coach of such a team, it is safe to say that no point would be left uncovered.

It seems apparent with such a coaching staff and with such an outstanding group of candidates for the team, Hartnell would never take a back seat in even the most formidable competition. We see no reason why Hartnell could not pin down the championship in its first season.

Handball Boosted

A current newsreel is showing the championship playoff between Sweden and Germany in an exciting new European sport called handball. This is not to be confused with the handball we have had in this country which is played by one or two men against a concrete wall. Rather, this is a fast-moving team sport played on a basketball court, and it has many of the characteristics of basketball, soccer and ice hockey. The goal is like that used in ice hockey and a goalie is employed. Other than the nets that make up the goal, practically no additional equipment is necessary other than that found in all school and college gymnasiums.

From the film it appears to be an exciting sport. Why cannot Hartnell pioneer this new sport on the west coast? It seems certain that our traditional rivals, the Lobos, would accept a challenge to battle us in a home-and-home series before the semester ends in June.

DID YOU KNOW . . . that Jean Marquess is doing a superb acting job as he stars in the current production, "Lo and Behold"? . . . that Norm Barchi is perhaps the best orator on the campus? Don't believe me, ask Mr. Walter Leineke! . . . that Tom Alderson of Gilroy is the best young writer on the campus? . . . that Bill Throgmorton, who will be a father for the third time, in June, holds a full-time 40-hour-a-week job, and he still maintains nearly the highest grade point average at Hartnell? . . . that Dr. Michael Samsonow, under the czar, was with the Russian embassy in Hungary . . . that the work of the greatest short story writer of the twentieth century, Damon Runyon, is not to be found in the Hartnell library? . . . that Jack Benny's real name is Benny Kubelsky and he was born June 15, 1894.

English Main Problem Of Portugese Student

By Sandra Eagleson

A young man with olive skin, light brown hair, and emerald green eyes disembarked from a plane at San Francisco airport six months ago. He had just arrived from Madeira Island in Portugal on a student visa. Randolph Freitas is the young man's name and he has attended Hartnell college since completing a short course at Drew school for foreign students in San Francisco.

Randolph, who is 20 and single, lives in Watsonville with his uncle, Manuel Norbrega. His parents, a sister and two brothers are still in his homeland, Portugal.

Randolph remarked that the contrasting forms of government of the United States and Portugal was one of the things which interested him. His most difficult problem is that of learning the language. He concluded that America is a "pretty good country."

The publishers have chosen 76 college teachers from throughout the United States to write portions of the book.

Last Friday the Hartnell baseball squad evened out its Coast conference record at four wins and four losses by defeating rival Monterey Peninsula college 8-2 at Monterey.

Nelson Foreman was the winning pitcher for the Panthers while allowing the Lobos only five hits.

Carl Bergeron and Mike Porter led the hitting attack with homeruns, while the Hart squad totaled six hits for the afternoon.

Represented at the meet were such teams as San Jose State, Camp Pendleton marines, Moffett field, Castle air force base, Valley youth center of Fresno, Santa Clara youth center and others.

Logan took second in the open 880, Ertman ran a 25.4 second 220-yard low hurdles and Bulaich took fifth in the open shotput.

Net Slate Ends As Gomez Bows

The Hartnell tennis squad finished its season by competing in the conference finals last week end.

Tom Gomez was the only Panther to advance to the finals. Gomez defeated Plantz of Diablo Valley, 7-5, 6-3, and Smith of Monterey Peninsula college, 3-6, 6-0, 6-1, before he lost to Menlo's Chris Crawford, 6-0, 6-2.

Larry Smith and Bill Meyenberg defeated their first round opponents but were defeated in the second round of matches. Smith defeated Andersen of San Jose City college, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, before he lost to Edwards of San Jose, 6-0, 6-1, and Meyenberg defeated Wilson of Menlo, 6-3, 6-4, before he lost to Stoesser of Monterey, 6-0, 6-0, in his second round match.

Carl Johnston and Bo Beauchamp were eliminated in their first round of singles.

In the doubles matches Meyenberg and Smith won their first-round match by defeating Wilson and Rachael of Menlo, 6-2, 6-3, but lost to Edwards and Green of San Jose in the second round, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. In the other doubles match Gomez and Beauchamp won their first-round match by defeating McNairy and Carr of Vallejo, 6-3, 6-4, but lost in the second round to Crawford and Campbell of Menlo.

Hart Baseballers Battle For Second In League.

Hartnell's baseball squad will be the host team as the local nine plays host to Diablo Valley college tomorrow in a doubleheader which may decide second place in the Coast conference. Games start at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Vallejo college, which holds first place in the conference standings, plays Menlo tomorrow. If the Falcons lose both games to Menlo and the Panthers win their doubleheader from Diablo Valley, Hartnell may share second place in the league.

Coach Jess Regli will start Dennis Anderson in the first game and Nelson Foreman in the nightcap. Diablo will probably use Rod Atnip, who has already taken decisions from Menlo and Monterey.

Softballers Led By Flint's Team

Doug Flint's team still holds the first place position in intramural softball with eight wins and one loss for a total of 16 points.

Bob Oka's squad is second with 13 points, Ramona Insular's 12, Bob Grossman's five and Ron Welch's two.

Members of the Flint team are Harry Wagner, Joe Jellison, Harry Flint, Maynard Potter, Donna Lamb, Angie Luporini, Don Wagner, Beverly Clements and Terrence Hogan.

Panthers Blast Santa Clara Nine, Joe Palacio Shines on Mound

The Hartnell college baseball squad scored four runs in the third inning Tuesday and went on to defeat the Santa Clara university freshmen, 9-2, on the Alisal street diamond. The victory atoned for an early season setback at Santa Clara and gave the Panthers a 12-7 over-all season's record.

Dennis Anderson, normally a pitcher, played most of the game in right field for the Harts and led the attack with a homerun and a triple. Dick Juarez and Willie Wittman also contributed two hits to a 12-hit Hartnell attack.

Joe Palacio, a freshman right-hander, chalked up his first junior college win as he shared the pitching duties with Nelson Foreman and Anderson, who pitched the last two innings. Palacio pitched the first five innings, striking out five, walking three and allowing one run.

Harts Seek New Record

By Jim Stireman

Coach Ed Adams seems to be thinking of the past as he takes his spikesters to Fresno tomorrow. Several years ago, in the days of Wes Bond and Dick Casper, Hartnell college set a distance medley relay record at the Fresno relays. Last year this record was broken.

But we think Coach Adams was a little bothered about losing this record, for this year he has taken the cream of his talented distance runners and entered them in the distance medley relay at Fresno. For all we know, Hartnell may have that record once again—and maybe this time, we'll keep it a little longer.

A while back, there was a mention of a "goat" on our baseball squad. This all came about because the individual threw the ball to second base instead of to first. Hartnell lost the game in which this event happened and immediately the loss was blamed on one player who made one mistake during the game.

Unfair to Blame Player

To make things look even worse for the person who called this player a "goat" and blamed him for the loss, this player has been a sparkplug on the Hartnell team all season and has even hammered out several homeruns.

We feel if anyone should be called a "goat" it should be the individual who blamed the player for losing the game—not the individual who makes one mistake and has to take responsibility for a team's loss.

It looks like Hartnell football coach, Mr. Ken Blue, has made a few well-known acquaintances during his years as a coach. While passing the gymnasium the other day, we saw Mr. Blue talking to 49'er end Billy Wilson. Maybe Wilson was on a business visit and maybe it was a social visit. Whatever the reason, Coach seems to have some famous friends.

"Roundup" Season Begins

With spring sports slowly coming to an end we won't be seeing much of Mr. Blue. An annual event for half of the Hartnell coaching staff is its spring "roundup." The funny thing about Hartnell, though, is that it doesn't pay off like it does at some other colleges.

The majority of the athletes at Hartnell are local athletes, while a minority of the athletes are "recruited." Many of the recruited athletes are not really recruited—they are sent here by four-year schools for "seasoning."

Tracksters Perform

Coach Ed Adams will take seven Panthers to the Fresno relays tomorrow and the local tracksters will compete against the top track performers in the nation.

Rudy Garcia, Bruce Logan, Fred Ertman and one other Hart distance runner will take part in the distance relay, while Dan Likens will compete in the javelin, Charlie Green will enter the broad jump and high jump and Andy Bulaich will throw the shot and discus.

This will be the last time the Panthers will perform prior to Hiura's 74 and 75 were good for a low of 149. Others in the top five were Don Powers, Monterey Peninsula college, 156; Sid Schwartz, Diablo Valley, and Jim Ferriera, San Jose City college, both 157; Art Clumeck, Menlo college, 159.

Hiura's championship was believed to be the first in history for a Hartnell golfer. The Panthers finished fifth in the conference team race which was won by Menlo. Diablo Valley golfers scored an 827 for medalist honors in the tournament.
